STIPULATION

Plaintiff Betty Anne Waters, as administratrix of the Estate of Kenneth Waters, and defendants Town of Ayer, Nancy Taylor-Harris, Arthur Boisseau, the estate of Buddy Decot, William Adamson, Sr. and Philip L. Connors (collectively, “the parties”), hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

1. On May 21, 1980, Katharina Brow was stabbed to death in her Ayer, Massachusetts home.¹
2. On June 2, 1980, APD Chief William Adamson reported that “From evidence gathered at the scene investigators defin[i]tely feel as though assailant (s) sustained some injuries as result of resistance [sic] from the victim to the extent that assailant (s) may have sought medical treatment.”²

3. Detective Lieutenant Dwyer and APD Chief Adamson checked the surrounding hospitals for patients with injuries sustained with a knife or other objects.³
4. Using pre-DNA technology, investigators identified two types of blood at the scene before trial: type B-positive, consistent with the victim, and type O, believed to have been left by the perpetrator.⁴
5. Type O blood was identified on the floor of the entrance to the back left bedroom (Item #2); the fibers of the bathroom rug (Item #3); the front of the left closet in the middle bedroom (Item #4); linens recovered from the hallway floor (Items #10A, B, D, E & F); carpeting in the living room (Item #21); the curtain from the front door window (Item #22); and the inside of the front door (Item # 23).⁵
6. The remaining bloodstains⁶ were identified as Type B, consistent with the victim’s blood type.⁷
7. Both the victim’s husband and Kenneth Waters, along with almost half of the male population, had type O blood.⁸

8. On May 11, 1983, Kenneth Waters was convicted of first-degree murder and armed robbery and was subsequently sentenced to life in prison.
9. In 2001, with the consent of the Middlesex County District Attorney's Office, Dr. Edward Blake of Forensic Science Associates ("FSA") conducted DNA testing on the following type-O bloodstains found at the Brow homicide scene: bathroom rug (Item #3), linens recovered from the hallway floor (Items #10A, B, D, E & F), and carpeting in the living room (Item #21). Dr. Blake's DNA tests showed that this type-O blood was left by a single male source.⁹ According to Dr. Blake, "it is unlikely that more than one human being out of several hundred million possess" the DNA profile of this single male source.¹⁰ Based on the DNA test results, Kenneth Waters was conclusively excluded as the source of that blood.¹¹
10. On March 13, 2001, the Middlesex County District Attorney's Office issued a press release stating that "the DNA of blood collected at the [Brow] crime scene does not match the DNA of the defendant, Kenneth Waters."¹²

11. In the same press release, the District Attorney's Office further stated that "the State Crime Police Lab notified the District Attorney's Office that it concurred with FSA's results."¹³
12. In light of the undisputed DNA exclusion, with the consent of the Middlesex County District Attorney's Office, Kenneth Waters was released from prison on March 15, 2001.¹⁴
13. The District Attorney's Office subsequently retained Bode Technology Group to conduct additional DNA testing of the Brow crime scene evidence.¹⁵ As reflected in their report dated June 8, 2001, the Bode scientists also found that neither the victim nor Kenneth Waters was the source of the DNA profile obtained from the blood stain on the bathroom rug (Item #3).¹⁶
14. On June 28, 2001, due to the undisputed DNA evidence, the District Attorney's Office withdrew the charges against Kenneth Waters by filing a nolle prosequi.¹⁷

Waters.¹⁸ An oral swab was taken from Ms. O'Connor and sent by UPS to Reliagene Technologies laboratory in New Orleans, Louisiana where it was received on April 13, 2007.¹⁹

16. As reflected in their report of May 10, 2007, Reliagene scientists conducted DNA testing of Ms. O'Connor's oral swab, and the DNA results establish to a scientific certainty that all of her biological offspring, including Kenneth Waters and his brother Leroy Waters, are excluded as the source of the type-O blood found at the Brow homicide scene.²⁰
